Magic 8

Sewing:

Time to practice the Magic 8!

You will follow the same directions as in Block 44 until you get to laying out your pieces on your design board.

This is your configuration for this block. Isn't it interesting how different the two blocks look just by changing the layout and coloring?

Web the columns together. Press the rows in opposite directions, and then sew them.

One thing you will do differently from block 44 is that you will spin the center points of the pinwheel. If you press towards on side, there will be a quite a thick spot in the center. By spinning the seam, you will distribute the bulk evenly and have a much smoother block.

Congratulations! 10 down...
